 An interesting memoir of this gallant soldier appeared in the "United Service Journal" for 1837. He was a native of Dumfriesshire, where his father had a small property of his own. In 1805 he joined the 52nd L.I. as an ensign, and in the year following was appointed to a lieutenancy in the Rifle Brigade (as the old 95th is now styled). As a lieutenant he had the good fortune to command one of the four companies of the Rifles which, under

LOT 663—continued.

Sir S. Beckwith, at the Pass of Barba del Puerco, on 19th March, 1810, so gallantly repulsed 600 chosen French troops who attempted to surprise them at midnight. The following is an extract from the above memoir :—" On the 19th Jan., 1812, he was one of the officers who volunteered and led the stormers at the taking of Ciudad Rodrigo, and was fortunate enough to come out unscathed, although one of the first to enter that deadly pass. At the storming of Badajoz on the 6th April, 1812, his name again stood on the list of volunteers for the forlorn hope, but as it was claimed by a senior officer of the division, he was obliged to limit his expectations to one of the posts of honour with the storming party. Sir Andrew Barnard, however, who commanded the Light Division, knowing how peculiarly well qualified he was for desperate enterprise, assigned him a post in front of the forlorn hope, in the command of a party carrying ropes prepared with nooses to throw over the sword-blades which formed the chevaux-de-frise, in the hope of being able to displace it by dragging it down the breach, but Johnstone and all his party were stricken down before they got within throwing distance. His appearance next morning is thus described by a brother officer, Capt. Kincaid, in ' Random Shots from a Rifleman,' page 287 :—' The first tent that I entered was Johnstone's. With his shattered arm bandaged, he was lying fast asleep, and coupling his appearance with the daring duty he had been called on to perform but a few hours before in front of the forlorn hope, I thought that I had never set my eyes upon a nobler picture of a soldier ! His whole appearance, even in sleep, showed exactly as it had been in the execution of that duty ; his splendid figure was so disposed as if he was taking the first step in the breach—his eyebrows were elevated—his nostrils still distended, and altogether he looked as if he would clutch the castle in his remaining hand ! No one could have seen him at that moment without saying—There lies a hero ! ' " Johnstone was wounded both at Quatre Bras and Waterloo. Promoted major 24th Dec., 1829. Quitted the service in 1831. Was Colonial Secretary at Cape of Good Hope, and died at sea 6th April, 1836.

A FIELD OFFICER'S GOLD MEDAL

for

BARROSA, MDCCCXI.

awarded to

Major ALEXANDER DUNCAN, R.A.

 From the Robert Day collection.

Lieut.-Colonel Alexander Duncan served as a subaltern at the defence of Toulon 1793; and in Nelson's famous brigade at the capture of Bastia and Calvi, in Corsica, 1794. As a Captain he served in Egypt in 1801; and the retreat of the French at Alexandria was hastened by the fire of a 24-pr., which he levelled with such admirable precision that the first three shots struck down the enemy in ranks, and by the time the fourth was fired they were beyond range.

As Major and Lieut.-Colonel he commanded the R.A. during the defence of Cadiz in 1810–11–12, at the battle of Barrosa (where the R.A. covered themselves with glory), and at Seville, where this gallant officer was killed by the explosion of a powder mill which had been taken from the French.

KNIGHT COMMANDER OF THE ORDER OF THE BATH,

Sir WILLIAM HOWE DE LANCEY, K.C.B.
(Quarter-Master General).

 Formerly the property of Major J. A. Hay.

The De Lanceys were descended from a wealthy Huguenot family, who went from Caen to America after the revocation of the Edict of Nantes. In the short space of sixty years this family produced three celebrated soldiers.

Sir William was the only son of Steven De Lancey, Governor of Tobago. His early career was one of renown, and in 1799 we find him Major of the 45th Regiment at the age of 21. On the 4th April, 1815, he married Magdalen Hall, but the escape of Napoleon from Elba necessitated his return to the battlefield.

At Waterloo, whilst talking to Wellington, a spent cannon ball struck him from his horse. By Wellington's orders he was carried in a blanket to a hut, where he was nursed by a sorrowing wife. After lingering ten days the hero died.
